

Strider Report – Mail, Rats, and Sneaky Thieves

Party: Haru (me), Cain, Orchid, Ber

We met up at the post office with Cain, Orchid, and Ber, who is a funny turtle man. The secretary sent us to the ~~avi ave aviry~~... pigeon room. Orchid's cat immediately started chasing the pigeons, and a halfling man was running around trying to stop it. He told us one pigeon was missing, so we had to help with post office work around town.

Our job was to deliver outgoing mail, collect incoming mail, and keep people safe while doing errands. I was given a very important letter that must not be bent. We went house to house delivering mail. At one house, a dog was guarding the door. I tried to sneak past it, but it saw me and bit me. I wasn't mad it was just doing it's job. I gave it some food and pets after, and it seemed okay with me.

At another house, an old lady had a rat problem. We found some rats in a closet and caught them quickly. But then we noticed more in the ceiling. Cain did something a bit extreme and brought the whole ceiling down, and a huge swarm of rats fell out. I slipped on one I had already stepped on earlier, but my team handled the rest with spells and we cleared them all out.

We continued and saw a man carrying two packages. I remembered the packages because I drew a cute flower on one of them. He tried to run when we talked to him, but Ber and I chased him across the rooftops. For a big turtle, he is really fast. I would like to race him someday.

I think Ber got too close during the chase and the thief fell off the roof. Cain told us to redeliver the packages while he handled the thief. When we came back, there was ash, burned grass, and part of a building looked slightly charred. I'm not sure what happened there.

Later we checked the news and met the sheep-herd again. Betsy the sheep is still healthy, but there is a new problem where something is scaring the sheep at night.

We went to investigate and found a ghost. After a bit of a fight and Cain using holy water the ghost disappeared. I hope it is okay wherever it went.

We finally delivered the "do not bend" letter, and it turned out to be a family portrait. After that, the sun started to set and the streets got darker.

We helped a boy who lost his cat. Ber climbed a tree, but the cat got scared and jumped down. I caught it before it got hurt. It was just too afraid to come down on its own.

On our way back to the post office, we noticed three suspicious people listening to us. I had an idea, so we talked loudly about a very expensive painting we had delivered earlier and pretended to leave it unguarded. The people took the bait and tried to break into the house. We stopped them and arrested the thieves before they could steal anything.

Job well done. Thieves caught. Painting still safe. I think that was a good day