

Mission report - Grocery Chopping

Party: Catherina – Jean – Joen - Gudd

Objective: Getting a berry bush plant safely to the cooks.

We all gathered in Haven, my first mission too, very exciting to meet new people in life. We got the mission to find wild berries, special berries. We need to bring the full plant safely to the chefs too.

We went in the Everplains, it was a very clear sky today, went North-East to it. I tried to get to know my allies. And there was a specific one that took my interest too. Catherine, or Cat in short, gave me a feeling that she's shy which I want to try to help her not shy away.

I also met Jean and Marcel, what a lovely pig. Then we have Gudd, who is good like his name.

We found a group of goblins yelling at a few people. We decided to intervene and found out that they killed their gods. We then convinced them that they could replace their gods and left us, the other party seemed to be fellow striders. They offered us a quick break, but we declined saying that we needed to head back to our quest.

Later, we found a worg running in the wild. With my bear trap and teamwork, we killed it with ease. Walking bit more, there were some dead goblins, out of respect we buried them all and gave them something special.

After long walk, we found the hole where there is the berry bush. Gudd and Cat went inside with rope, but Gudd got stuck. We heard from Gudd that there were bugs hitting his shell, which was not good. With one move from Gudd he finally got free and we all got them out.

Jean thought quickly and used his utensils to get some ingredients for a concoction that the bugs won't like at all. Which worked perfectly! The insects were gone from the bush, and we safely removed it from the ground.

We decided to make camp and when Gudd woke us up because he saw a figure coming closer... And closer... And closer... We started to attack, Gudd almost got kidnapped by the creature, we couldn't make up what it was. Long claws and blood in the mouth. In the end we killed it and saved Gudd.

As we walked back, we found that the place where we buried the goblins had blood, a gem that looked like it was from a necklace and a sword all on the ground... someone was here. We followed the path and it led to Resin Creek, Cat quickly made a carrier for Marcel to carry the bush.

We found a cave, with creatures: a worg, hobgoblin with a few other goblins. Me, Gudd and Cat were hiding in the trees, but it wasn't long until Cat was down, Jean healed her, but literally after that they killed Jean... And Gudd followed him... It was me and Cat left... We had to take them all down.

Cat took care of the last few goblins that were alive and I took care of the worg and the hobgoblin. With my eldritch blast... me and Cat finished off everything...

Grief and sadness filled us, yet I tried to stay strong and not show much at all. We carried the bodies and the bush safely back to Haven to finish our quest.
